Controlling Time and Shaping the Self

Developments in Autobiographical Writing since the Sixteenth Century

Edited by
Arianne Baggerman
Rudolf Dekker
Michael Mascuch

BRILL

LEIDEN • BOSTON
2011
CONTENTS

Notes on Contributors .............................................................................................................. ix
List of Illustrations .................................................................................................................. xiii
Introduction ........................................................................................................................................ 1

Arianne Baggeman, Rudolf Dekker and Michael Mascuch

PART ONE

HISTORICIZING THE SELF

- Historicizing the Self, 1770–1830 ....................................................................................... 13
  Peter Burke
- Tracing Lives: The Spanish Inquisition and the Act of Autobiography .............................. 33
  James S. Amelang
- Autobiographical Memory in the Making: Wilhelmina of Prussia's Childhood Memoirs .... 49
  Lotte van de Pol
- Drastic History and the Production of Autobiography .......................................................... 77
  Peter Fritsche
- Marc-Antoine Jullien: Controlling Time ................................................................................. 95
  Philippe Lejeune
- The Diary and the Pocket Watch: Rethinking Time in Nineteenth-Century America ....... 121
  Molly McCarthy
- Writing and Measuring Time: Nineteenth-Century French Teenagers' Diaries .......... 147
  Marilyn Himmesoëte
- Marking Time: Australian Women's Diaries of the 1920s and 1930s .................................. 169
  Katie Holmes
- The Second World War and Autobiography in Japan. Tales of War and the “Movement for One’s Own History” (Jibunshi) .... 197
  Petra Buchholz
CONTENTS

Can There Be a Collective Egodocument? The Case of the Hashomer Hatzair Kehiliyatenu Collection in Palestine, 1922

Ofer Nordheimer Nur

PART TWO

AUTOBIOGRAPHY, SELF-PRESENTATION AND COMMERCIAL PUBLISHING

The Economy of Narrative Identity

Paul John Eakin

Behind the Mask of Civility: Physiognomy and Unmasking in the Early Eighteenth-Century Dutch Republic

Eveline Koolhaas-Grosfeld

John Wesley, Superstar: Periodicity, Celebrity, and the Sensibility of Methodist Society in Wesley’s Journal (1740–91)

Michael Mascuch

Self-made Men and the Civic: Time, Space and Narrative in Late Nineteenth-Century Autobiography

Donna Loftus

Life Writing, Marketing and the Construction of Cinema History: On the Ghostwritten Autobiography of Dutch Film Entrepreneur Abraham Tuschinski

André van der Velden

“Reading The Body”: Authors’ Portraits and their Significance for the Nineteenth-Century Reading Public

Lisa Kuitert

Dutch Matrimonial Advertisements from 1825 until 1925: Changing Self-Portraits and Partner Profiles

Pieter R.D. Stokvis

Autobiography and Contemporary History: The Dutch Reception of Autobiographies, 1850–1918

Marijke Huisman
CONTENTS

The Politics of Nostalgia or the Janus-Face of Modern Society ................................................................. 421
Henri Beunders

PART THREE
CONTROLLING TIME AND SHAPING THE SELF

Lost Time: Temporal Discipline and Historical Awareness in Nineteenth-Century Dutch Egodocuments........ 455
Arianne Baggerman