Stress in Post-war Britain: A (Studies for the Society for the Social History of Medicine)
1 From War to Peace: Fat - Pamela Richardson
2 Families, Stress and Me - Nicole Baur
3 Gender, Stress and AKs - Ali Haggatt
4 Working Too Hard: Ex-Britain - Jill Kirby
5 Industrial Automation - Debbie
6 Cultural Change, Stress c.1967–85 - Joseph Mel
7 Men and Women under during and after the $ - Matthew Smith
8 Stomach for the Peace: and Civilians, 1945 - Mark
9 Food Allergy, Mental I
10 Labouring Stress: Sci Perceptions of Work - Chris Millard
11 Creating 'The Social' - Joseph Mel
Part II: Models of Stress

List of Contributors
Acknowledgements
Part I: Stress at Home and
Part I: Models of Stress

Notes
Index
CONTENTS

List of Contributors ix
Acknowledgements xiii

Stress in Post-War Britain: An Introduction – Mark Jackson 1

Part I: Stress at Home and Work

1 From War to Peace: Families Adapting to Change
   – Pamela Richardson 17

2 Families, Stress and Mental Illness in Devon, 1940s to 1970s
   – Nicole Baur 31

3 Gender, Stress and Alcohol Abuse in Post-War Britain
   – Ali Haggett 45

4 Working Too Hard: Experiences of Worry and Stress in Post-War Britain – Jill Kirby 59

5 Industrial Automation and Stress, c.1945–79 – Sarah Hayes 75

6 Cultural Change, Stress and Civil Servants’ Occupational Health, c.1967–85 – Debbie Palmer 95

Part II: Models of Stress

7 Men and Women under Stress: Neuropsychiatric Models of Resilience during and after the Second World War – Mark Jackson 111

8 Stomach for the Peace: Psychosomatic Disorders in UK Veterans and Civilians, 1945–55 – Edgar Jones 131

9 Food Allergy, Mental Illness and Stress since 1945
   – Matthew Smith 145

10 Labouring Stress: Scientific Research, Trade Unions and Perceptions of Workplace Stress in Mid-Twentieth-Century Britain – Joseph Melling 161

11 Creating ‘The Social’: Stress, Domesticity and Attempted Suicide
   – Chris Millard 177

Notes 193
Index 247