

Paying for Hitler's War

The Consequences of Nazi Hegemony for Europe

Edited by

JONAS SCHERNER

Norwegian University of Science and Technology

EUGENE N. WHITE

Rutgers University

Contributors	page
Introduction Jonas Scherner and Eugene N. White	i
SECTION I GERMANY'S WARTIME DILEMMA	17
1 Germany's Economic War Aims and the Expectation of Victory, 1918 Carsten Burhop	19
2 The Institutional Architecture of Financing German Exploitation: Principles, Conflicts, and Results Jonas Scherner	43
3 Employing the Enemy: The Economic Exploitation of POW and Foreign Labor from Occupied Territories by Nazi Germany Johann Custodis	67
SECTION II THE OCCUPIED WEST	101
4 The Long Shadow of Vichy: The Economic Consequences of Occupation Eugene N. White	103
5 Forced Collaboration, Entrepreneurial Strategies, and Their Long-Term Effects in France Marcel Boldorf	126
6 Trading with the Enemy? The Occupation of the Netherlands and the Problems of Postwar Recovery Martijn Lak	140

7	La Politique du Moindre Mal: Twice-Occupied Belgium Kim Oosterlinck and Eugene N. White	164
8	The Economics of the German Construction Programs in Occupied France and Occupied Italy, 1940–1945 Fabian Lemmes	198
SECTION III NORTHERN EUROPE		233
9	The Economic Effects of the German Occupation of Norway, 1940–1945 Harald Espeli	235
10	Sweden as an Occupied Country? Swedish–Belligerent Trade in World War II Eric Golson	266
11	A Mild Occupation? Denmark, 1940–1945 Steen Andersen	296
12	Unequal Partners: Germany and Finland during the Second World War Jari Eloranta and Ilkka Nummela	320
SECTION IV EASTERN EUROPE		341
13	System Transformation as Consequence of the German Occupation? Czechoslovakia’s Path from the Nazi War Economy to Postwar Centralized Planned Economy Jaromír Balcar and Jaroslav Kučera	343
14	German Economic Exploitation of Bulgaria: Short-Term Economic Policies and Long-Term Institutional Effects Vera Asenova	364
15	Scorched Earth, Plunder, and Massive Mobilization: The German Occupation of Ukraine and the Soviet War Economy Kim Christian Priemel	389
16	The Economic Consequences of German Occupation Policy in Poland Ramona Bräu	427
	Index	451

Contributors

Steen Andersen, National Archives of Denmark, Rigsdagsgaarden,
Copenhagen

Vera Asenova, Central European University, Budapest

Jaromír Balcar, Max Planck Institute for the History of Science, Berlin

Marcel Boldorf, University of Lyon 2

Ramona Bräu, Historical Commission on the Reich Finance Ministry,
1933–1945, Cologne

Carsten Burhop, Max Planck Institute for Research on Collective Goods, Bonn

Johann Custodis, University of Warwick

Jari Eloranta, Appalachian State University, Boone, North Carolina

Harald Espeli, BI Norwegian Business School, Oslo

Eric Golson, Oxford University

Jaroslav Kučera, Charles University, Prague

Martijn Lak, Leiden University and The Hague University of Applied
Sciences

Fabian Lemmes, Ruhr University, Bochum

Ilkka Nummela, University of Jyväskylä

Kim Oosterlinck, Solvay Brussels School of Economics and Management